Machine learning is a field of artificial intelligence that allows computers to learn from data, recognize patterns and make decisions with minimal human involvement. Rather than being explicity programmed for specific tasks, machine learning algorithms examine and interpret large datasets to identify meaningful relationships that aid in predictions or decision-making. These algorithms continuously refine their accuracy over time by processing increase amounts of data, uncovering trends and correlations that enhance their predictive capabilities over time. gradually.